Estes leaves lasting impression

It was a memorable celebration of Wartburg's Sesquicentennial and Martin Luther King, Jr., Day when internationally renowned opera star Simon Estes came to Wartburg Jan. 21 and 22.

Estes, who grew up in Centerville and graduated from the University of Iowa, has sung throughout the world. He now lives in Switzerland but frequently returns to Iowa to visit his mother and perform throughout the state.

An unexpected honor for the Wartburg Choir and Director Paul Torkelson '76 came when Estes asked the group to perform during his Artist Series program on Martin Luther King, Jr., Day.

Estes spoke at a Wartburg convocation the next morning, discussing his philanthropic interests and his experiences as an African American growing up in rural Iowa. He also presented a master class for Wartburg music students later that day.

Celebrating A PROUD TRADITION

Creating

A PURPOSEFUL FUTURE

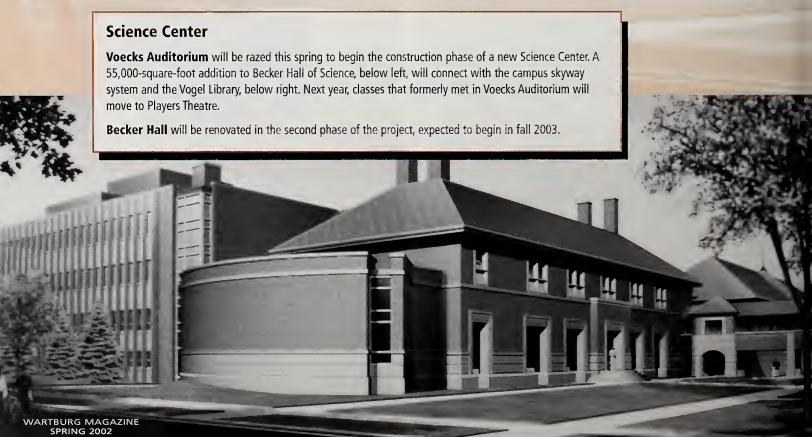

On the west edge of the Wartburg campus, a new maintenance building is going up on the former soccer field as a new soccer facility takes shape near Hertel Field. On the east edge of the campus, several familiar homes near Neumann Auditorium have been moved or razed to clear the way for a new campus entrance.

This spring, track and field athletes are practicing and competing on Wartburg's new orange all-weather track. In May, parts of the Student Union and Becker Hall of Science will be closed as a multimillion-dollar construction project gets under way.

While Wartburg celebrates a proud tradition at Sesquicentennial alumni gatherings throughout the country, the gifts of alumni, parents, and friends are creating a purposeful future through Campaign Wartburg.

Launched at an Oct. 19 Sesquicentennial Homecoming gala, Campaign Wartburg is the most ambitious fundraising effort ever undertaken by the college. Its $88 million goal includes $40.85 million for the college's endowment, $40.15 million for facilities and special projects, and $7 million for the Annual Fund.

Total gifts and pledges to Campaign Wartburg now exceed $46 million.

"This is a pivotal moment in Wartburg's history," said Board of Regents chairman Fred W. Hagemann '67 of Waverly in announcing the campaign. "The Board of Regents has authorized this campaign with the conviction that we can make no better investment in the constituents we serve. Wartburg College will continue responding to the needs of society through its emphasis on leadership, service, and quality education."

Gifts and commitments from the Board of Regents and other individuals during the leadership gift phase exceeded $23.7 million, according to Wartburg President Jack R. Ohle. Total gifts and pledges to Campaign Wartburg now exceed $46 million.

Ohle noted that a $2.5 million gift and commitment from Fred and Sue Hagemann and 17 orher commitments of $1 million or more from Regents, alumni and friends of the college, have provided significant momentum.

The campaign priorities are an outgrowth of Commission Wartburg, a constituent-based planning initiative that concluded in May 2000. More than 235 Wartburg alumni and friends were involved in that process, which resulted in 266 recommendations for the college's future.

The campaign will encompass all gifts and commitments made to the college from June 1, 1998, when the Commission process began, through May 2006.

Student Union

The north end of the Student Union will be razed this spring, and the second floor of the Union will be closed in late June as the first phase of the Union expansion project gets under way.

Beginning this May Term, student mailboxes will be relocated to the second floor of the Visitors Center and the Den will move to the first-floor hallway of the Classroom Technology Center. Castle Room functions will move to the Chapel Commons.

The cafeteria will remain open during the 2002-03 year as new dining facilities are developed on the second floor. The present cafeteria will be renovated for the Den once the new facilities open in fall 2003.

CAMPAIGN WARTBURG

Setting the Pace — A $2.5 million gift and commitment from Fred '67 and Sue Childs'69 Hagemann of Waverly is part of nearly $24 million in leadership gifts announced at the Campaign Wartburg kickoff in October. Fred Hagemann, chairman of the Board of Regents, is also serving as national campaign chairman. "We are gratified by the Hagemanns' generosity and by their continuing efforts on behalf of the college," said Wartburg President Jack R. Ohle.

NEW BUILDING – A new maintenance building is nearing completion on the west side of the campus.

Campaign Wartburg represents college's

Endowment - $40,850,000

Campaign Wartburg will help the college meet its goal of increasing the endowment from $37 million to $50 million within the next five years and to $100 million by 2010.

Although the endowment has increased 223 percent in the last 10 years, Wartburg has much to accomplish to match and exceed the endowments of its peer institutions. Endowment growth will reduce dependence on student tuition, increase financial aid for students, and provide funding for endowed faculty chairs, sabbaticals, research projects, and workshops. It will expand Wartburg's honors program, global and multicultural study opportunities, minority graduate student assistantships, technology enhancements, and service-learning programs.

Facilities and Special Projects - $40,150,000

Becker Hall of Science Expansion and Renovation

- Construct 55,000 square-foot addition for large auditoriums, wet labs, and public space.
- Renovate approximately 50,000 square-feet of existing space for classrooms, offices, and dry labs.
- Connect new facility with existing campus skywalk system.

Student Union Expansion and Renovation

- Double existing cafeteria seating space.
- Enlarge kitchen/food preparation area by nearly 30 percent.
- Triple space for conferences and meetings.
- Add a ballroom that seats nearly 400 guests.
- Build a new Castle Room.
- Increase space for student organizations and staff.
- Expand sales area in the Bookstore.

East Campus Entrance (part of Student Union project)

- Develop a new campus entrance from Bremer Avenue to create a visible and attractive front door to the college with appropriate signage and landscaping.
- Increase available parking on the east side of campus.
- Provide a convenient drop-off area for visitors and guests.
- Enhance the aesthetics of campus through landscaping and relocation of the maintenance building.
- Create a safer environment for students and other pedestrians by closing Eighth Street, a heavily traveled street at the east edge of the campus.

Multipurpose Performance Center (part of Student Union project)

- Develop a facility east of Whitehouse Business Center with approximately 300 seats.
- Offer an enhanced performance venue for the college's theatre program.
- Create additional rehearsal space for Wartburg's growing music programs.
- Ease scheduling conflicts for Neumann Auditorium.
- Provide a more intimate atmosphere for smaller events.
- Enhance facilities for conferences and meetings.

Maintenance facility to open this spring

A new maintenance building will open this spring on the site formerly occupied by the Wartburg soccer field.

The 18,000-square-foot building will house maintenance offices, a garage for grounds equipment, and substantial storage for supplies and equipment. It also will include plumbing, electrical, and carpentry shops and a south carport for collegeowned vehicles.

According to Plant Superintendent John Wuertz '73, the new facility will replace the present 2,000-square-foot maintenance building and satellite storage areas in five garages, an off-campus house, and the former Act II video store at the corner of Bremer Avenue and 10th Street NW.

When the new facility is finished, the old maintenance building across from Players Theatre will be torn down. That area will become part of the East Campus Entrance. The soccer field was moved to an area near Hertel Field as part of the college's new athletic complex.

Athletic Complex (already completed)

- Built new outdoor stadium and press box.
- Completed new athletic field with FieldTurf surface to expand use beyond football.
- Installed all-weather track.
- Provided track-and-field throwing venue.
- Developed competitive soccer field.

Other Projects

Campaign Wartburg funds are also targeted for renovating residence halls, remodeling offices and academic areas, and providing classroom technology.

Annual Fund - $7 million

Annual Fund gifts help underwrite the college's operating budget and allow the college to keep tuition charges affordable. The Annual Fund provides operating revenue to maintain facilities, recruit and retain a strong faculty and staff, and fund financial aid for deserving students. Annual Fund support enhances every aspect of Wartburg's day-to-day operation.

Step up to the plate:

Food Service hits home run with candlelight meal for 900

by Karris Golden

Clarence Dawson likes a challenge.

And as assistant director of Food Service, he has no shortage of tough assignments. He particularly likes opportunities for the team to show its full range of expertise.

"It's tough," Dawson said. "We try to be creative and not duplicate dishes at different events. It's a real challenge, and we're constantly having to prove we're capable of more than cafeteria—style dining."

The gauntlet was thrown down during Homecoming 2001: Serve an elegant, sit-down meal for more than 900 guests at the Sesquicentennial kickoff, a gala event in the Wartburg Field House

"As far as I know, this is the biggest sit-down dinner we've ever served,"

Dawson noted.

Since coming to Wartburg four years ago, he has helped plan seated meals for large crowds, such as the 700 who attended President Jack R. Ohle's inauguration dinner in April 1999. The team also serves a picnic-style lunch to roughly 2,000 people, including students, faculty, staff, and guests, after Opening Convocation each fall.

Food Service began intense planning for the gala a month before the event. That included meeting with John Wuertz '73, plant superintendent, to develop a usable floor plan and address the logistical concerns of serving a meal across campus from the Student Union.

"We're out of the building, so that essentially means we have to set up a makeshift kitchen at the site," Dawson explained. "Then, we have to rent a U-Haul to transport the food from our kitchen and a refrigerated truck from Martin Brothers."

An event of this size requires a large staff, he added. Roughly 180 Wartburg work-study students and 20 area high school students, along with the 30 full-time and two part-time employees, pitched in. In addition, Food Service hired approximately 75 servers from athletic teams like cross country, softball, and track.

"Everyone works when there is something like this. Even the people from our office had to help – that's how much was required of this event," Dawson noted. "It really shows we're capable of great things when you realize that a lot of the people who served at this event have never even done this type of work before."

As with other large dining events, the menu is a collaborative effort.

"We needed to decide what we could make that would hold up well in transportation," Dawson said.

This includes finding ways to maintain each dish's quality and freshness. Several factors come into play, Dawson said. "It's about what we can cook and what we can do well. We're not going to attempt something that will flop."

For an elegant event such as the gala, Dawson usually develops three or four menus and submits them to President Ohle. A few weeks before the event, the menu items go through a taste-testing session. Ohle, his wife, Kris, and other staffers may suggest alterations or substitutions before the final menu is determined.

Most of the gala menu items had to be prepared about 45 minutes before they were served. That may not seem like much time to cook, arrange, and secure dishes for transport, but it was an eternity to the skilled chef.

"It's tough, because you want to make sure that everything is perfect," Dawson said.

The result was a reception menu that included intricate hors d'oeuvres. Dawson also recreated a German bola, or wine punch. The strawberries were soaked in non-alcoholic wine for four to six hours, then the mixture was added to equal parts sparkling, non-alcoholic wine.

"We served finger foods like cheese crisp and crackers and bacon-wrapped stuffed olives, which meant guests didn't have to carry plates around. They could mingle, yet still enjoy the food," Dawson said.

A string quartet complimented the menu, and decorations included ice sculptures and soft lights.

The gala dinner menu began with an endive, romaine, and mandarin orange salad dressed in orange vinaigrette. Beef tenderloin medallions with shiitake mushrooms followed, flanked by steamed asparagus spears and Parmesan red potatoes. Dessert was a chocolate swirl cheesecake with an upright "wave" – a thin wall of chocolate inserted into the cheesecake that read: "Wartburg College, 1852-2002."

The cheesecake was a hit, and many wondered about the wave. "We have a company in California that sugar-screened the lettering onto the chocolate waves for us," Dawson confided.

He also admits to getting nervous before big "serves."

"Oh, you're always nervous, but the more you do them, the more comfortable you become. Still, you're never too comfortable. You just reach a point where you know what your comfort zone is, so you're a better judge of what your staff can handle."

The greatest compliments Dawson received were simple the ones. "A lot of people said that the salad was cold, and the meat was hot. In other words, the food was prepared well. That's what I wanted to hear — that's how I know we pulled it off."

Because the Food Service does a good job, outsiders sometimes take it for granted, he added. For example, few realized that during Homecoming 2001 the team also served three other off-site meals.

Yet the success and quality of the gala reception and dinner is something for the whole college to brag about, Dawson said.

"We were asked to step up to the plate, and I think we proved we're as good – no, better – than any place in town," he said. "Most four- and five-star hotels would have been proud of the gala dinner. That's a big feather in our hats."

Trumpet recognized for Sept. 11 coverage

The Wartburg Trumpet won an award from the Associated Collegiate Press for coverage of events surrounding the Sept. 11 terrorist strikes in the United States.

The Sept. 17 issue of the Trumpet took third place for non-daily, tabloid-style editions from four-year institutions in a special category created after Sept. 11. Dr. Lil Junas, Trumpet adviser, said Wartburg was the only small college to receive an award in this category.

"The extra hours and effort that editor Jordan Drackley and her staff gave that week paid off," Junas said, noting that it was the Trumpet's first issue of the academic year. Drackley is a junior from Decorah.

Wartburg community responds to Sept. 11 attacks

by Karris Golden

Hundreds of students, faculty, and staff members crammed into the Wartburg Chapel, its narthex, and its commons area. Few tears were visible; a stunned silence had muted the solemn crowd.

On the day terrorists attacked the World Trade Center and the Pentagon, the campus community had gathered for solace and prayer at a Sept. 11 vigil service.

President Jack R. Ohle could not attend the late-afternoon service. Like many travelers, he was stranded, unable to make connections out of Denver, Colo.

At home, the Wartburg community struggled to keep going. Phones in the Alumni and Parent Relations Office were abuzz with calls from and about Wartburg graduates living in New York City and Washington, D.C.

Professors went into action, many scrapping the day's lesson plans to focus on student needs. And at the end of a campus dialogue that evening, a first-year student who had arrived on campus only a week earlier said she couldn't imagine a better place than Wartburg to be during the crisis.

In the days and weeks following the attacks, the campus community searched for ways to help survivors and families of victims.

Students taking the Entrepreneurship course collected more than $7,000 through a T-shirt fundraiser.

"We were brainstorming in class, discussing ways we could benefit the victims of the attacks," said Sara Ehlinger '03.

Under the direction of Dr.
Patrick Langan, assistant professor of business administration, students designed and produced a T-shirt with the words "Wartburg Remembers September 11, 2001" and a U.S. flag in the shape of the country on the front. The back read, "God, Country, Wartburg."

The shirts were sold at the Wartburg College Bookstore and during Homecoming festivities.

Proceeds were presented to the Families of Freedom Scholarship Fund, which provides educational assistance to financially needy dependents of those killed or permanently disabled in the Sept. 11 attacks and subsequent rescue efforts.

Susan Vallem '66, associate professor of social work, spent two weeks in Manhattan as an American Red Cross counselor. She counseled with individuals who had lost family members in the attacks and accompanied survivors and family members of victims who were ready to visit the Ground Zero site.

Vallem, who was asked to volunteer, said she appreciated the college's support of her decision to go. She spent the Thanksgiving holiday working in New York.

On campus, the Campus Ministry joined Al '64 and Jan Howard '65 Buenning in an effort to put U.S. flags in the 22 classrooms of a Brooklyn, N.Y., public school where Sandra Hansen '00 teaches. Campus Ministry groups also made care packages for the children of New York rescue workers.

Lambda Pi Eta, a communication arts honor society, and Campus Ministry co-sponsored a Teeter-Totter-Athon ouside the chapel on Oct. 3. The 24-hour event raised more than $1,000 for the 9-11 Firefighters Fund, which supports families of emergency workers lost in the attacks.

"Approximately 100 students, faculty and staff teetered or contributed in some way to the event," said Dr. Penni Pier, lecturer in communication arts.

KWAR-FM sold suckers with red, white, blue, and orange pins affixed to benefit the New York City/Washington, D.C., Explosion Relief Fund.

Wartburg rated highly in newest U.S. News rankings

Out of 322 comprehensive colleges in the country, Wartburg ranks among the top 20 in academic reputation, according to the latest edition of America's Best Colleges, published by U.S. News & World Report.

Wartburg went from the fourth tier of national liberal arts colleges in the 2001 edition to the first tier of Midwest comprehensive colleges in 2002. The change reflects the college's reclassification as a baccalaureategeneral institution by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. Colleges in this classification award less than 50 percent of their degrees in the liberal arts.

U.S. News & World Report uses the term "comprehensive colleges" for this classification, which denotes institutions that offer undergraduate degree programs in both the liberal arts and in professional fields such as business, education, and communication arts—three of Wartburg's largest majors.

According to the Registrar's Office, Wartburg awarded 353 bachelor's degrees in 2001 with 169 in the liberal arts—48 percent.

Among 322 comprehensive colleges in the nation and 110 in the Midwest:

- Wartburg was one of 21 and the only Iowa college highlighted for high graduation rates.
- Wartburg was fourth on a list of the Midwest's "Great Schools at Great Prices."
- Wartburg was seventh on a list of top 10 Midwest comprehension colleges.

Deaths of former faculty, staff sadden community

The deaths of three former faculty and staff members saddened the Wartburg community last fall.

Frances Zelle of Waverly, longtime secretary in the Chaplain's Office and the foreign language department, died Oct. 7 of apparent heart failure. She was 80.

Dr. Lisa Cellucci Bower, who taught voice in the Wartburg music department from 1994 to 2000, died Nov. 8 at her home in Thornton, Colo., after a battle with cancer.

The Rev. Waldemar Gies '41 of Longmont, Colo., professor emeritus of religion, died Nov. 22 at his home following a lengthy illness. He was 83.

Zelle joined the Wartburg staff in 1965 and retired in 1988. She and her husband Lester were honored last summer as grand marshals for Waverly's Heritage Days. Survivors include her husband, three children, and four grandchildren.

Cellucci had completed her Doctor of Music Arts degree at the University of Cincinnati College Conservatory of Music in March 2000, shortly before she moved to Colorado with her family. She was a graduate of Syracuse University and earned a Master of Music degree from the University of Michigan. Survivors include her husband Tim and daughters Alexandra and Gabrielle of Thornton.

Gies was a Colorado native. He graduated from Hebron Junior College in 1939, completed a bachelor's degree at Wartburg, and graduated from Wartburg Theological Seminary, Dubuque, in 1944. While serving as assistant to the bishop in what is now the Rocky Mountain Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, he earned a master's degree in English from the University of Northern Colorado.

He served parishes in Kimball, Potter, and Ashland, Neb., before accepting a teaching position at Wartburg in 1954. He initially taught in the English department.

After his retirement in 1983, he lived in Green Valley and Tucson, Ariz., before settling in Longmont in 1999.

Alumni survivors include his wife, Esther '41; two sons, the Rev. Waldemar (Val) Gies '71 of Rogers City, Mich., and Stephen Gies '73 of St. Paul, Minn.; two daughters, Gretchen Tripolino '76 of Cedar Falls and Roberta Fjeld '79 of Longmont, Colo.; and four grandchildren, including Christopher Tripolino '05.

ROTC: Who controls Wartburg's curriculum?

by Karris Golden

When the Wartburg faculty voted down a proposal to bring Reserve Officer Training Corps programs to the college, no one anticipated the political maelstrom it would create.

A year ago, faculty members considered and ultimately declined an offer to enter into a cross-enrollment agreement with the University of Northern Iowa's ROTC program. Since then, and particularly since the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks on the United States, the decision has been the subject of newspaper and television reports, radio talk shows, and an Iowa Public Television program.

Many Wartburg faculty members believe the ongoing political debate has obscured what is at the heart of the ROTC issue: Wartburg curriculum.

"My concern has always been that we were not offered the opportunity to enter a direct arrangement is that the Wartburg faculty would have that occurs in that program."

- Dr. Lake Lambert,

assistant professor of religion

relationship with the Army," said Dr. Lake Lambert III, assistant professor of religion. "Instead, we were offered a three-way agreement between Wartburg, the U.S. Army, and UNI."

Lt. Col. Michael DePuglio,
commander of the
UNI ROTC program, presented the cross-enrollment proposal to the Educational Policies

Committee (EPC). The committee referred the proposal to the full faculty for a vote.

Wartburg students have long been able to take military science courses at UNI, which the college accepts for full, transfer course credit. It's also Wartburg's policy to welcome U.S. military recruiters to campus and comply with requests for information, said Dr. Edith Waldstein '73, vice president for enrollment management. Waldstein served on the Educational Policies Committee last year in her former role as associate dean of the faculty. In addition, students can and do serve in the military reserves and the U.S. Army National Guard.

Prior to the Feb. 1, 2001 vote, faculty members received a written description of DePuglio's proposal and had opportunities to discuss the issue in group meetings prior to the vote.

The proposal outlined a plan that would require Wartburg to incorporate the ROTC's military science courses into its curriculum, list UNI ROTC instructors as members of the faculty, and provide the instructors with oncampus classroom space.

It wasn't a new idea, said Dr. Terrence Lindell, professor of history. "About a decade ago the Educational Policies Committee discussed the possibility of a link to UNI's ROTC program," he recalled. "At the time I didn't think it was a good idea."

> When EPC was presented with the ROTC crossenrollment proposal, Lindell said he changed his mind, prompted by the question: Do we want the officer corps of the United States Army to be influenced by the sorts of values that Wartburg, as a church-related, liberal arts college, espouses?

> > "If the answer to that question is yes – and for me it is – then the proposed program was a good opportunity," he explained.

Yet unlike the rest of Wartburg's curriculum, the ROTC proposal offered the faculty no ostensible control over the military science courses, Lambert noted.

"I believe any military science curriculum at a place like Wartburg should include a strong focus on ethics," said Lambert, who holds the Board of Regents Chair in Ethics. "But it's not clear whether the current proposal would allow Wartburg to fashion a military science program consistent with our mission as a college of the church."

President Jack R. Ohle is unwavering in his support of the faculty's responsibility for Wartburg's curriculum.

"The bottom line is that the faculty decided last year, after much debate, that it was not feasible to implement the ROTC program, as proposed by Lt. Col. DePuglio, at Wartburg at this time, and that they would not forward it to the college's Board of Regents for consideration," said Ohle.

Lambert agreed. "The Wartburg faculty understand themselves primarily as teachers, and we work very hard to ensure quality instruction. In the program that we were offered, it was not clear how the instructors in the ROTC program would be evaluated and if they would ever be evaluated by Wartburg's standards. The whole point of the proposed agreement was that ROTC would become a 'Wartburg program,' but without adhering to the same standards of teaching excellence, it will never be a Wartburg program. Instead, it will be UNI program that Wartburg calls its own, and that is unacceptable."

Despite this concern on the part of many faculty members, Wartburg has been heavily criticized since the vote. Much of the criticism arose from incomplete and inaccurate information presented by the media, particularly after the Sept. 11 attacks on the World Trade Center and Pentagon.

Within days of the attacks, DePuglio wrote to President Ohle and offered to again present the cross-enrollment agreement to the Wartburg faculty. Citing the faculty's heavy workload, Dr. Fred Strickert, professor of religion and chair of the Faculty Senate, indicated to the president that the Faculty Council did not wish to revisit the proposal.

This and other factors kept the story in the statewide media. Reacting to a story in the Des Moines Register about the faculty's decision to maintain the college's current relationship with UNI ROTC and forego cross-enrollment, a Des Moines radio talk show host called the action "un-American."

In November, Representative Brent Siegrist, Speaker of the Iowa House of Representatives, announced his intention to introduce legislation requiring all private colleges in the state to "assist in implementing ROTC programs or sharing agreements where sufficient student interest exists."

The release specifically singled out Wartburg and was largely based on erroneous information, Ohle said. He responded with a prepared statement, citing the college's history of accommodating students who wish to take military science courses at UNI.

Ohle, Siegrist, and Lt. Col Tom Johnson, Iowa's senior U.S. Army adviser and former head of the Iowa State University ROTC post, appeared on Iowa Public Television's "Insight Iowa" program Jan. 3 to discuss ROTC programs on college campuses.

During the dialog, Ohle suggested further discussions should center on what is best for students. He also suggested that educators, legislators, and military leaders should work together to find ways to provide financial assistance that allows the student to participate in ROTC at any college or university while enrolled at a different institution. This proposed arrangement would be similar to the Iowa Tuition Grant program, in which funds are awarded to the student, not an institution. Both Siegrist and Johnson agreed such an arrangement may help resolve the current issue without affecting curriculum at private colleges and universities.

Sophomore writes, produces, stars in comedy filmed during May Term

Tim Warmanen '04, had always wanted to make a movie. The opportunity finally came late in the 2001 school year, when the electronic media major had to register for May Term.

"I worked out a May Term independent study called Digital Film Production," said Warmanen. Through the course, he wrote, produced, and starred in PLAYED, a 45minute movie based on real-life events in his hometown of Crystal Falls, Mich.

Although he didn't have to attend class, Warmanen said May Term was anything but relaxing. It took him four weeks at the end of Winter Term to write a script, which he describes as an "unexpected romantic comedy." He recruited the cast and crew and shot the movie during May Term.

"I would e-mail a schedule of the scenes I wanted to shoot during the week to the cast," Warmanen explained. "I had to work around everyone else's schedules, because they all had classes. The last scene was an all-nighter."

Warmanen edited PLAYED over the summer, using his computer and special editing software. At the same time, he was gaining valuable editing experience in an internship with Avenue Editing in Chicago. Back on campus last fall, he scheduled a screening with members of the communication arts faculty.

"I was nervous," Warmanen recalled, but the faculty gave the project a thumbsup. "They said it was good, that I had done a good job, and that they were proud."

Warmanen said he considered leaving Wartburg for art or film school during his freshman year, but decided against it when he thought about what he'd give up.

"I realized a lot of people here want to help you," he said.

PLAYED had its public premiere in November at Waverly's Palace Theatre during a Wartburg night at the movies. The cast arrived by limo and entered the building on a red carpet.

Warmanen now plans to enter the production in a college film festival and says the experience also expanded his career plans.

"I always thought I'd be an editor, but now I'm thinking about starting my own production company," he said.

Publisher accepting orders for new Wartburg history

WDG Publishing of Cedar Rapids will publish a new Wartburg history by Dr. Ronald Matthias '54, professor emeritus of history, during the college's Sesquicentennial year.

"Still on the Move, Wartburg College 1852–2002" chronicles the openings and closings, hopes and frustrations, moves and mergers that have characterized the college's 150-year history. The 9-by-12-inch volume includes anecdotes about Wartburg people and traditions and more than 200 black-and-white and color photographs from the college archives.

The hardcover book is now available at a special pre-publication price of $39.95 plus shipping and handling ($7.50 for the first book plus $2 for each additional book). After publication, the price will be $49.95.

NATIONAL CHAMPION — Freshman Missy Buttry of Shenandoah became the first Wartburg College indoor track national champion by winning the 1,500-meter title at the NCAA Division III Indoor Championships March 9.

Buttry races through phenomenal first year as Wartburg runner

by Ben Shanno '04

Missy Buttry's freshman year at Wartburg keeps getting better.

Four months after earning all-American status at her firstever NCAA Division III national cross country meet, Buttry became a national indoor track champion.

Buttry's performance in the national 1,500-meter event at Ohio Northern University topped the field by more than five seconds. In the process, she set Wartburg and ONU Sports Center records with her time of 4:31.17.

"My main goals for the indoor season were to lower my times from high school and qualify for nationals," said the Shenandoah native. "Once I was in nationals, I wanted to be an all-American. After I saw how my times stacked up, I started thinking about trying to win."

In addition to winning the 1,500-meter event, Buttry ran a leg of the distance medley relay, which placed second at the national indoor meet. Added to her 26th-place national finish in cross country, Buttry is already a three-time all-American with the outdoor track season still in progress.

She won indoor Iowa Conference championships in the 1,500-meter and 800-meter events. Over the course of the indoor season, she had two other 1,500-meter wins and an 800-meter win. A runner-up finish in the 1,500 was her lowest placing in an individual event during the indoor season.

With her time of 17:46 at last fall's national cross country meet, Buttry became Wartburg's first cross country all-American since Esther Dubuc finished 13th in 1995. Earlier in the season, she won the Buena Vista Invitational, placed second in the Iowa Conference meet, placed third in the Augustana Invitational, and finished sixth at the Woody Greeno Invitational.

"She did about as well as she could've done for her freshman year," said cross country coach Steve Johnson.

Buttry is accustomed to early success. As a freshman runner at Shenandoah, she placed eighth in the Iowa High School state cross country meet, then won the state title her sophomore year. She also won two Hawkeye-10 Conference titles and was an all-conference selection and state qualifier all four years.

"There's definitely a lot more competition now," Buttry says of her college career. "In high school, I would always sprint out to the front and try to keep the lead the whole race. Coach Johnson has taught me a whole new technique of waiting until the last mile to make my move."

One thing that hasn't changed since high school is Buttry's desire to win.

"Missy is very goaloriented," Johnson said. "She wants to beat everyone she competes against. ... My goal for her is consistent progress throughout her entire career."

In addition to individual success, Buttry is part of a successful college effort in cross country and track. The women's cross country team won the conference championship and the Central Regional meet and finished 11th at the national meet. The women's indoor track team won its fifth straight conference championship and finished 13th at nationals.

"It was awesome coming into a program where we finish near the top at all of our meets," Buttry said. "It has been one of the best experiences of my life."

Buttry chose Wartburg over Iowa State University and the University of Arkansas, among other schools.

"Coach Johnson is one of the main reasons I came to Wartburg," she said. "He showed me times that some of the girls were running in high school and compared them with the times they are running now. I saw how much he helped his runners to improve."

Demro ends career among decorated linemen

Demro is the second Knight selected for an American Football Coaches Association all-American team, joining Vince Penningroth (1995). He is among 10 Wartburg offensive linemen to earn all-American honors, the last being Joel Rochford (1999).

He was recognized by Don Hansen's Weekly Football Gazette, Hewlett-Packard and D3football.com with second- and third-team all-American notoriety at the end of the 2001 season. Demro added those credentials to an already impressive resume that includes two all-Iowa Conference selections, all-region honors, and selection as a preseason all-American prior to his senior year.

His final chance to play collegiate football, the Aztec Bowl, said plenty about the senior and his abilities on the "O" line. Demro played right and left guard for the U.S. National Team that pummeled Mexico 37-5.

"Everyone got some playing time," he said. "It was fun, the crowd was great, the stadium was awesome...the entire experience is something I'll never forget."

"We are the winningest class in school history," he noted. "That's something I will always remember, along with the great friends and the good group of guys I was able to play with."

FOOTBALL: Knights post perfect record in new stadium

The 2001 football team opened a new era with success, achieving a 5-0 home record on the FieldTurf surface at the new Walston-Hoover Stadium. The 18 seniors became the winningest class in school history with a 36-4 regular-season mark and a 20-0 record at home.

The Knights ended the season 8-2 overall and 7-2 in the conference with losses to Coe and Cornell.

"This was a tremendous group," said head coach Rick Willis. "Their commitment and leadership has set a standard by which future classes will be measured."

In five contests at the new stadium, the Knights stopped traditional rivals Luther and Upper Iowa, upset No. 5-ranked Central, shut out an always-strong Buena Vista crew, and defeated UW-Oshkosh in the first night game played on campus.

A near-capacity crowd of 4,300 saw the Knights' Sept. 1 premier at Walston-Hoover Stadium in a 31-10 victory over UW-Oshkosh. The loss was the first for the Titans in an opener since 1980.

Seven weeks later, coming off a tough 10-6 road loss at Coe, Wartburg put itself in the headlines of Division III football with a convincing 31-7 Homecoming win over Central.

"We take a lot of pride in our home win streak," Willis said. The win was the 21st straight in regular season action for Wartburg at home and ended a 17-game regular-season win string for Central. The Central win was part of an awesome last month of football for our team."

Runners-up in the Iowa Conference, the Knights dominated the league statistics. Wartburg was first in four offensive and four defensive team categories. Five individuals ranked in the top three of statistical categories.

Nationally, Wartburg ranked third in total defense, allowing only 210 yards per game, and was eighth in scoring defense, giving up just 11 points a game. The Knights were in the top 20 in turnover margin (plus 15) and rushing defense (89.4 yards per game). On the individual level:

- Junior Justin Beatty of Independence finished eighth in the nation in rushing with 1,377 yards, and ended fourth in all-time single-season efforts.
- Senior wide receiver Dan Achenbach of Anamosa reset the school's single-season reception mark with 57 catches. He led the HAC in both receptions and receiving yards.
- Sophomore defensive end Vince King of Burlington made opposing offenses take notice with a conference-best 24 tackles for losses.
- Junior quarterback Jake Olsen of Osage was second among conference players in passing with 1,752 yards.
- Sophomore defensive back Cody Kelley of Tipton ranked third among conference players in interceptions with six.

MEN'S GOLF: Successful fall campaign

Sophomore Dan Schmitz of Stout won back-to-back individual medalist crowns, and the team captured the Clarke College Invitational during the 2001 fall men's golf season. Schmitz won the medalist title at Clarke with twin 79s and through a two-hole playoff. A week earlier, captured medalist honors at the Mount Mercy Invitational.

In addition to winning fall meets at Simpson and Clarke, the Knights placed fifth out of 14 teams at the Loras Invitational. They were third at the Mount Mercy Invitational, only three shots out of second.

VOLLEYBALL: Squad moves toward next level

The volleyball team reached a national tourney for the first time since 1998 and won 28 matches along the way.

Head coach Jennifer Walker said season highlights included wins over defending national champion Central at the Washington University tournament in Missouri and Juniata, a 2001 Final Four qualifier, at the Trinity tournament in Texas.

The Knights had only two seniors, defensive specialists Kristin Niemann of Manchester and Rachel Miller of New London.

The junior class turned in impressive numbers. Setter Angie Hulse of Clarence, a second team all-Iowa Conference honoree, set a school record for single-season assists (1,459). Outside hitter Jamie Garbes of Dunkerton and middle hitter Jessica Mennen of Parkersburg were second statistically in kills and attack percentage (Garbes - 418 and .254) and blocks (Mennen - 58). Defensive specialist Denise Dietz of Tripoli battled a late-season injury but still finished with 334 digs and 23 service aces.

Sophomore outside hitter Dia Dohlman set new school records for kills (510) and attack attempts (1,366). Sophomore Amy Kueker of Waverly set a new school standard for digs (510) and continued her reputation as one of the top servers in the league with 49 aces. Sophomore middle hitter Cassie Ringsdorf of Davenport led the team in blocks, accumulating 29 solo and 91 assisted blocks for a total of 120.

Freshmen middle hitter Ranae Grafft of Osage and setter Sarah Olsen of Osage paid immediate dividends for the Knights. Grafft hammered 11 kills in 88 games, while Olsen came off the bench to start the regional match-up with Wash U. Alison Amfahr of Grundy Center was called up to the varsity early in the season and appeared in 14 games.

The Knights set four new team marks in kills (1,869), attack attempts (5,208), digs (2,465), and assists (1,752). They lost to Washington University in the first round of the postseason regional tourney.

WOMEN'S GOLF: Knights take steps forward in 2001

GOLF MVP - Sophomore Amy Gustafson of Urbandale, Most Valuable Player for the 2001 women's golf team, chips on to the green during conference tourney play. The women's golf team ended the 2001 season with its lowest score since 1992 at an Iowa Conference tournament, carding a 749. The team also put together the lowest two-day total since 1989 at the Wartburg Invitational with a 718 and cut 30 strokes off last year's score at the Mt. Mercy Cropper Invitational.

Wartburg turned in a 14-stroke improvement on the second day of the Iowa Conference women's golf championships and ended with a sixth-place finish. Sophomore Amy Gustafson of Urbandale, Wartburg's low scorer on the first day, ended the meet with a 184 total, carding 92 on both days. She wound up18th individually. Freshman Cassie Byers of Anamosa tied for 19th with 185 after trimming13 strokes off her day one score of 99.

Led by sophomore Amanda McMahan's 86, the Knights finished the Mt. Mercy Cropper Invitational with 363, 30 strokes lower than their 2000 total and one shot behind Central for fifth place.

Football players named Academic All-Americans

Two Wartburg football players were named to the 2001 Verizon Academic All-American College Division teams: senior center Seth Roberson of New Hampton, first team, and senior defensive lineman Chad Winters of Waterville, second team.

Roberson, a two-time academic All-American, is a physics major with a 3.60 grade-point average. Winters is a physical education major with a 3.84 grade-point average. They were the only two Iowa Conference student-athletes on either team.

Roberson and Winters are the 50th and 51st academic All-Americans at Wartburg since 1970. The Knights football team has had a player on either the first or second team for four consecutive seasons.

CROSS COUNTRY:

Teams look back on 'dream season'

Wartburg swept the men's and women's varsity and junior varsity races at the Iowa Conference Cross Country Championships, claimed a women's Central Region championship, and took two top-15 finishes at the NCAA Division III national meet.

"It was a dream season in that everything we had been hoping for before the season came to pass," said head coach Steve Johnson.

Wartburg's clean sweep of the IIAC championships was a repeat of 1998. Junior Joe Hughes of Tama and freshman Missy Buttry of Shenandoah led the way, each placing second in the varsity events. Johnson was named IIAC Coach of the Year for the men and women.

The women's team won its first regional title since 1994, outdistancing runner-up Nebraska Wesleyan 74-101. Buttry and senior Erin VanZee of Pella led six all-region runners for the Knights, placing third and eighth respectively. Freshman Janae Holubar of Marshalltown, seniors Kristy Blasberg of Tripoli and Amie Brunko of Brandon, and junior Gretchen Graham of Batavia, Ill., also placed in the top 35.

The men placed third in the region, four points ahead of Hamline (Minnesota).

Hughes and junior Tyson Keith of Eldora guided the Wartburg men, placing fifth and 10th respectively. Seniors Mitch Cook of Monticello, Brock Lehman of Fremont, Neb., and Brad Hofer of DeWitt earned all-region honors as well.

From there, it was a snowball effect at nationals, with the men finishing 10th and the women placing 11th led by all-American performances from Buttry and Hughes.

SOCCER: Continued gains in 2001

The Wartburg women's soccer team set several new records in 2001, including 13 victories, 79 goals, 471 shots on goal and 38 assists. The men were just a victory short of tying the school record for wins, and freshman forward Verne Houston of Omaha, Neb., led the Iowa Conference in goals (17) and points (36).

Both teams qualified for an IIAC postseason tournament berth for the first time.

Head coach Jim Conlon credited the women with developing a team chemistry early in the season, and "it carried us to 13 wins."

Junior forward/midfielder Kat Breitbach of Strawberry Point was the team's leading goal scorer with a schoolrecord 14. Freshman forward Chelsea Krohe of Davenport was one off Breitbach's pace, while 14 other players tallied goals.

The men's season highlights included two early-season wins over Iowa Wesleyan and Mount Mercy, and a late-season victory over the University of Dubuque.

"The door was left open for us to play in the conference tournament, but we had to win," Conlon said of the Dubuque game. "The match was a battle through two overtimes, and we found a way to win."

Miller reflects on decade as head wrestling coach

by Mark Adkins '90, sports information director

"I knew I wanted to coach when I came here, but I didn't know what Wartburg was all about," said Jim Miller, reflecting on his decade of coaching the Knights wrestling team.

"I have come to admire the environment in 10 years, both from an athletic and academic standpoint. I have learned to love this place."

Last fall, Miller was inducted into the Northern Iowa Athletic Hall of Fame and the National Wrestling Coaches Association Hall of Fame.

"It truly does surprise me each time I get one of these honors," Miller said. "I was third at state in high school, and I went into the wrestlers Hall of Fame. I never dreamed that would happen - it blew me awav."

Miller said the National Wrestling Coaches Association honor was just as important.

"The high school programs, especially in the state of Iowa, are the lifeblood of college wrestling," he noted. "We have had Iowa kids in the Wartburg program throughout the years, and we were dominated by them when we won our first national title. I really loved my experience as a high school coach in Charles City as well."

Miller began wrestling on a competitive level as a seventh-grader. At Waterloo East High School, he took third place in the state tournament as a senior. His competitive career kicked into high gear at the University of Northern Iowa. He won two NCAA Division II

FACE IN THE CROWD --"Sports Illustrated" featured Jim Miller as one of its March 18 "Faces in the Crowd," noting that he guided the Knights to their 10th straight conference championship and now has a dual meet record of 177-24-1 at Wartburg, including 66 straight conference wins.

national championships and moved on to the Division I level, placing second and fourth at 134 pounds. He also met Coach Chuck Patten, a man who influenced his future.

"Coach gave all of us a sense of what we had to do to be better wrestlers and better individuals, thinking about life on and off the mat. He was always talking to us about the importance of our education, too. No matter what you were working with, he always told you to not be satisfied with the status quo. You had to keep looking at the next goal, always looking forward."

Miller took Patten's ideas and incorporated them into his coaching career. In six years at Charles City High School, his teams finished in the top 10 at state five times. He spent eight seasons as the top assistant at UNI and then in 1991, he made the move to Wartburg.

Under Miller, the Knights have won two NCAA Division III national championships and put together a run of 10 consecutive Iowa Conference titles. Wartburg tied for second at the 2002 Division III championships and crowned seven all-Americans, more than any other school in the field.

"With all of the individual all-Americans, national champions and so on, I think I am still the most proud of our graduation rate," Miller said. "We are doing it right. These student-athletes come here, work hard to win in the wrestling room, pay attention to their education, and get degrees."

Wrestler gets international experience in Uzbekistan

by Mark Adkins '90

Junior LeRoy Gardner III of Golden Valley. Minn., experienced a new culture and gained valuable international wrestling experience GARDNER PREVAILS last August as a participant in the 2001 FILA Junior World Greco-Roman Wrestling

Junior heavyweight LeRoy Gardner goes head-to-head with an Augsburg wrestler in action earlier this year.

Championships in Tashkent, Uzbekistan.

Gardner earned the trip in May after winning the 130-kilogram United States Greco-Roman Junior Championship at the Junior World Team Trials in Lincoln, Neb.

"Getting to see a new culture firsthand was great," he said, noting Dave Fredrick '65, Wartburg's associate director of international recruitment, arranged for one of his contacts in Uzbekistan to show the U.S. team around Tashkent.

"We saw a lot of the old Soviet buildings, and the subway area we went through was full of Soviet paintings. Some places were in rough shape, but the areas where we wrestled and stayed were brand new."

Gardner ended the tournament in eighth place at 130 kilograms, the heavyweight division. He finished with a 1-1 record, losing a 4-2 decision to Alexandr Kupyanskiy of Kazakhstan and then pinning X Virender of India in 0:53.

"(Greco-Roman) wrestling makes you work well on your feet, picking the best times to take shots," he said. "You also need to work your hands well. Work in both of those areas will help me this year and down the road."

Wartburg Choir alumni plan June reunion in Colorado

Wartburg Choir alumni and friends will gather in Colorado June 9-16 for their biennial reunion. Dr. James E. Fritschel '56 of Thousand Oaks, Calif., and Dr. Paul A. Torkelson '76 of Waverly will serve as co-directors of the group.

Rehearsals are held primarily in the mornings, allowing free time in the afternoon. Various activities for the evening are in the planning stages, according to the reunion committee. Committee members include Fritschel and Colorado alumni Steve '71 and Betty Nickel of Estes Park, Phil and Mary Dailey '75 Gottlieb of Highlands Ranch, and Mike Boender '82 of Lakewood.

The Alumni Choir will perform two concerts at the end of the reunion week. The group will sing in Estes Park Saturday evening, June 15, and in Englewood Sunday, June 16, following the 10:30 a.m. worship service at Bethany Lutheran Church.

Habitat Weekend planned in Dubuque July 11–14

Join Wartburg College alumni, faculty, staff, and students July 11–14 to work on a Habitat for Humanity Project in Dubuque. The event celebrates the Wartburg Sesquicentennial and the college's longstanding commitment to service.

Participants can help at the Habitat work site or assist in preparation of food for coffee breaks and lunches. Overnight lodging is available at Wartburg Theological Seminary for $25 per night.

Members of the Habitat for Humanity committee include Randy '85 and Carol Ydstie '85 Ratekin, Johnston; Ruth Pfohl Unmacht '55, Dubuque; John '73 and Liz Wuertz and Bill '57 and Jan Welsch '59 Striepe, Waverly.

Sesquicentennial receptions take place at locations throughout country

During the Sesquicentennial year, Wartburg College is hosting receptions in more than 40 locations. Invitations are issued to alumni and select parents and friends in each of the areas. A brief program includes the showing of a video produced for the anniversary year. Thanks to the hosts who have served at past events and to those hosting the remaining receptions.

Webster publishes book of poems

Ambush and Other Poems, a book by Harold Webster '63 of Carlton, Minn., is now available in the Wartburg Bookstore.

"My friends and family have urged me to publish these few poems, and I have consistently resisted the idea, realizing there is no great demand even for the masterworks of Robert Frost and Walt Whitman," Webster writes in the book's foreword.

"However, I was finally persuaded to publish a few copies in book form, just to see how far they might go."

Webster said the book is already into a second printing. In addition to the Wartburg Bookstore, it is available at Barnes & Noble in Duluth, Minn., and from Webster Publications.

An English major at Wartburg, Webster taught high school English in Iowa and Minnesota before entering the public relations field. His career has included executive-level experiences as a public relations professional for corporations and communication firms. He recently served on the Commission Wartburg Task Force on Marketing and College Relations.

He is semi-retired as former owner and now chairman of WestmorelandFlint Advertising Agency in Duluth. He met his wife, Kay Knopf '63 Webster, at Wartburg.

The title poem of Webster's book describes his philosophy that poetry should "tug a little at the brain, to maybe cause a little consternation or discomfort."

Ambush and Other Poems costs $8.50 plus shipping and handling. To order, call the Wartburg Bookstore at 319-352-8227 or e-mail Webster Publications at Haroldkayw@aol.com.

Christmas with Wartburg CD available

A compact disc recording of Christmas with Wartburg 2001 can be ordered from the Wartburg College Advancement Office for $15. The recording includes numbers by the Wartburg College Wind Ensemble, Wartburg Choir, Castle Singers, and Ritterchor. The groups performed in Waverly, Cedar Falls, Cedar Rapids, and Des Moines during the first two weekends of December.

Theme of this year's production was "A Stable Lamp Is Lighted," based on a Christmas hymn. In honor of the college's sesquicentennial year, the program included compositions by two former Wartburg music faculty members. The Wartburg Choir sang In the Midst of Christmas Night by Dr. Edwin Liemohn and Qui Sedes by Dr. James Fritschel '51. Also featured were two works by Professor Matthew Armstrong, lecturer in music: Quem Vidistis Pastores, sung by the Ritterchor, and What Can I Give Him? presented by the combined groups.
